WHO IS BEHIND ALL THIS?

Sandy Viteri founded Viteri Vibes following a highly successful career as a Vice President of Global Marketing for a $350M media measurement and analytics company. She brings extensive experience in marketing, branding, and sales enablement to a boutique business model that provides personal attention to each of its clients.

Working for nearly two decades with major enterprise companies in the media measurement/analytics and software development industries, Sandy has developed subject matter expertise in demand generation that has been proven effective in bolstering marketing revenue.

Leveraging extensive leadership abilities, Sandy can create exceptional events, successful marketing campaigns, marketing operations teams and marketing technology ecosystems from the ground up while fostering improved collaboration between Sales and Marketing personnel to drive the overall success of organizations.

SUCCESS STORY

“ I had the need to host a very important VIP Roundtable event with Senior Executives from the top TV Networks. The objective of the event was to have strategic discussions about the most pressing challenges of our industry, where high-level insight were expected. Viteri Vibes took care of everything for us. Even the smallest of the details! ”

Alejandro Fosk
Vice President of Sales, comScore.

WHY CHOOSE US?

Viteri Vibes offers a personalized, high-touch experience to customers seeking to build emotional connections and good vibes with their client base. While many agencies claim to offer this level of attention and service, they are not backed by the solid experience that comes from working in global marketing and communications environments that Viteri Vibes provides.
